ABSTRACT

This collection of responses represents data collected by Who's Who Among American High School Students of Northbrook, Illinois in a 1978 nationwide survey of high school student leaders, a total of 21,500 students, 37% male and 63% female. Statistical analyses are presented in tabular form for each item, and sub-divided according to race, sex, type of community (urban, suburban, and rural) and region of the United States. The items reviewed in the survey address the following issues: (1) national priorities; (2) federal spending; (3) tax cuts and community services; (4) domestic and foreign policies; (5) education; (6) social issues; (7) environmental concerns; (8) career choices; (9) relationships with parents and peers; and (10) religious values. INTRODUCTION

This survey was conducted by Who's Who Among American High School Students, Northbrook, Illinois, during the summer of 1978 for the purpose of determining the attitudes of student leaders in our nation's high schools. It is the largest independent sampling of this segment of the student population taken annually since 1970.

Who's Who believes that, in these rapidly changing times, it is important for the nation to be aware of student opinions and attitudes. Today's teens are not only an important segment of the present voting population, but will be assuming positions of leadership as this country enters the 21st century. Hopefully, as the data from this ninth national survey is circulated and studied, significant trends will be uncovered.

We regard this survey as an educational experiment. We are in no way attempting to promote or negate any political, moral or social philosophy, organization, firm or individual. Because of our contact with student leaders, it is our belief that we are in a position to gather important facts and meaningful information and, therefore, have a corporate responsibility to pursue this knowledge.

The basic form of the questionnaire was developed over the past nine years in day-long seminars with Chicago area honor students. This year, to make the questionnaire more representative of student attitudes across the country, Who's Who mailed past questions to its 25 student Advisory Board for revisions, deletions and additions.

Although we of Who's Who feel that some of the questions and answers are of a private and controversial nature, we do not hesitate to take the responsibility for the project in order to achieve our objective of identifying and measuring student attitudes. We apologize to anyone offended by any of the material presented herein.

Though by no means a reflection of today's "average" student because it is dealing with the opinions of student leaders and high achievers, we feel this survey does give insights into the thoughts of those leaders who set standards and behavior patterns for others to follow.

Of the 318,000 high achievers featured in the 1978 edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, 50,000 students whose biographies were received by July 1, 1978 were sent the survey. Some 21,500 completed questionnaires were returned.

These 21,500 responses form the base of the survey. All students surveyed were members of the junior or senior class during the 1977-78 academic year. They were selected for recognition in Who's Who by their principals or guidance counselors, national youth organizations or the publishing company because of their high achievement in academics, activities, community service, atnletics or their performance in national scholarship or award contests.

The 318,000 students listed in the twelfth annual edition of Who's Who represent approximately 5 percent of he 6,500,000 students who are high school juniors and seniors during the 1977-78 academic year. They represent 20,000 of the 24,000 public, private and parochial high schools in the nation.

This survey was tabulated by computer. Questions were tabulated by total response; breakdowns by sex, race, geographical region and type of community are also included. On questions calling for write-in answers, results are shown of the most frequently mentioned answers.
